Portuguese Acquisition Linkages Project
Level 2 Framework

In August 2015, the University of Georgia’s (UGA) Portuguese Flagship Program (PFP) applied for and received funds from the National Security Education Program (NSEP) to support the Portuguese Acquisition Linkages (PAL) project. The PAL project is designed to strengthen and expand late-start Portuguese language teaching and learning in the state of Georgia. One of the main objectives of the PAL project is to develop curricular Frameworks for Portuguese Targets based on the most current research/expertise.

To create the Frameworks for Portuguese language courses, the PAL project created an advisory board that included: researchers in the field of second language acquisition; university foreign language professionals; district language coordinators; Executive Director from the American Association of Teachers of Spanish and Portuguese; and a strategist/consultant from the Language Flagship Program. Georgia Curriculum Coordinators and classroom teachers reviewed the frameworks, met with the advisory board and offered feedback for final revisions.

The Framework developed for each course reflects high expectations for all students, is designed specifically for late-start Portuguese language instruction, and is tailored specifically for use in other late-start Portuguese programs.

Proficiency Targets were established for courses where one year of study is equal to 120 ~ 150 hours of instructional time. Year 1 may happen at middle school or high school, but not before Grade 6. It is also important to note that the Proficiency Targets represent realistic, achievable skill levels when teachers understand the targets and when they plan and teach to have students evidence them.

Since little recent research has been published about targets in listening, reading, and writing, foreign language experts Greg Duncan and Fernando Rubio developed targets in these areas for the PAL project, based on their expertise, previous studies from STAMP, and targets set by the Cobb County Schools in Metro-Atlanta. Dr. Rubio points out that the listening targets were established keeping in mind that “with older learners, listening may not develop as fast as reading and speaking; particularly in Portuguese where the relationship between orthography and phonology is not very straightforward.”
Level 2 Course Description

The Level 2 language course focuses on the continued development of communicative competence in the target language and understanding of the culture(s) of the people who speak the language. It assumes that the students have successfully completed a Level I course or are at a Novice-High to Intermediate Low level of proficiency.

Students begin to show a greater level of accuracy when using basic language structures, and they are exposed to more complex features of the language. They continue to focus on communicating about their immediate world and daily life activities, read material on familiar topics, and write short, directed compositions. The major means of communication between students and instructors will be in the target language. Because students may begin formal language learning at various stages of their cognitive development, teachers must adjust vocabulary and content in order to reflect developmentally appropriate interests. This course may be taught over two years (e.g., middle school programs), over one year (e.g., traditional high school programs), or during one semester (e.g., 4 x 4 block schedule).

Proficiency Targets for this project are achievable when teachers: (1) understand the targets themselves, (2) plan learning experiences that will deliver the target, and (3) provide students feedback that relates to the targets.

<td>At the Novice High sublevel, listeners are often but not always able to understand information from sentence-length speech, one utterance at a time, in basic personal and social contexts where there is contextual or extra linguistic support, though comprehension may often be very uneven. They are able to understand speech dealing with areas of practical need such as highly standardized messages, phrases, or instructions, if the vocabulary has been learned.</td>
<td>At the Intermediate Low sublevel, listeners are able to understand some information from sentence-length speech, one utterance at a time, in basic personal and social contexts, though comprehension is often uneven. At the Intermediate Low sublevel, listeners show little or no comprehension of oral texts typically understood by Advanced-level listeners.</td>
<td>At the Intermediate Mid sublevel, listeners are able to understand simple, sentence-length speech, one utterance at a time, in a variety of basic personal and social contexts. Comprehension is most often accurate with highly familiar and predictable topics although a few misunderstandings may occur. Intermediate Mid listeners may get some meaning from oral texts typically understood by Advanced-level listeners.</td>

NOVICE HIGH

Speakers at the Novice High sublevel are able to handle a variety of tasks pertaining to the Intermediate level, but are unable to sustain performance at that level. They are able to manage successfully a number of uncomplicated communicative tasks in straightforward social situations. Conversation is restricted to a few of the predictable topics necessary for survival in the target language culture, such as basic personal information, basic objects, and a limited number of activities, preferences, and immediate needs. Novice High speakers respond to simple, direct questions or requests for information. They are also able to ask a few formulaic questions.

- I can present information about my life using phrases and simple sentences.
  - I can describe my family and friends.
  - I can describe my school and what I do.
  - I can tell about a familiar experience or event using phrases and simple sentences.
  - I can describe a useful website.
  - I can talk about my favorite musical, actor, or author.
  - I can describe a landmark, vacation location, or a place I visit.
  - I can talk about a famous person from history.
  - I can present information about others using phrases and simple sentences.
  - I can talk about others' likes and dislikes.
  - I can talk about others' free-time activities.
  - I can give basic biographical information about others.
  - I can give basic instructions on how to make or do something using phrases and simple sentences.
  - I can tell how to prepare something simple to eat.
  - I can describe a simple routine, like getting lunch in the cafeteria.
  - I can give simple directions to a nearby location or to an online resource.
  - I can present basic information about things I have learned using phrases and simple sentences.
  - I can describe a process like a science experiment.
  - I can present a topic from a lesson based on pictures.
  - I can present information about something I learned in a class or at work.
  - I can present information about something I learned in the community.

INTERMEDIATE LOW

Speakers at the Intermediate Low sublevel are able to handle successfully a limited number of uncomplicated communicative tasks by creating with the language in straightforward social situations. Conversation is restricted to some of the concrete exchanges and predictable topics necessary for survival in the target-language culture. These topics relate to basic personal information; for example, self and family, some daily activities and personal preferences, and some immediate needs, such as ordering food and making simple purchases. At the Intermediate Low sublevel, speakers are primarily reactive and struggle to answer direct questions or requests for information. They are also able to ask a few appropriate questions. Intermediate Low speakers manage to sustain the functions of the Intermediate level, although just barely.

- I can talk about people, activities, events, & experiences.
  - I can describe someone's physical appearance.
  - I can describe someone's personality.
  - I can describe a school, workplace, or place I have visited.
  - I can present my ideas about something I've learned.

- I can express my needs and wants.
  - I can describe what I need for school or work.
  - I can talk about what I want or need to do each day.

- I can present information on plans, instructions, and directions.
  - I can explain the rules of a game.
  - I can give multi-step instructions for a recipe.
  - I can describe my plans for the weekend.
  - I can describe what my summer plans are.
  - I can describe how to plan for a holiday or vacation plans.
  - I can describe what is needed for a holiday or celebration.
  - I can describe what I plan to do next in my life.

- I can present songs, short skits, or dramatic readings.
  - I can retell a children's story.
  - I can present a proverb, poem, or nursery rhyme.
  - I can participate in a performance of a skit or a scene from a play.

- I can express my preferences on topics of interest.
  - I can give a presentation about a movie or television show that I like.
  - I can give a presentation about a famous athlete, celebrity, or historical figure.
  - I can express my thoughts about a current event I have learned about or researched.

INTERMEDIATE MID

Speakers at the Intermediate Mid sublevel are able to handle successfully a variety of uncomplicated communicative tasks in straightforward social situations. Conversation is generally limited to those predictable and concrete exchanges necessary for survival in the target culture. These include personal information related to self, family, home, daily activities, interests and personal preferences, as well as physical and social needs, such as food, shopping, travel, and lodging. Their speech may contain pauses, reformulations, and self-corrections as they search for appropriate vocabulary and language forms to express themselves. In spite of the limitations in their vocabulary and/or pronunciation and/or grammar and/or syntax, Intermediate Mid speakers are generally understood by sympathetic interlocutors accustomed to dealing with non-natives.

- I can make a presentation about my personal and social experiences.
  - I can describe a childhood or past experience.
  - I can report on a social event that I attended.
  - I can make a presentation on something new I learned.
  - I can make a presentation about my plans for the future.

- I can make a presentation on something I have learned or researched.
  - I can give a short presentation on a current event.
  - I can present about a topic from an academic subject, such as science, math, art, etc.
  - I can describe how to plan and carry out an event, such as a party or family reunion.
  - I can give a short presentation on a famous person, landmark, or cultural event.

- I can make a presentation about common interests and issues and state my viewpoint.
  - I can give a presentation about a favorite movie or song and tell why I like it.
  - I can give a presentation about a famous person or historical figure and tell why he/she is important.
  - I can share my reactions about a current event and explain why the event is in the news.

<td>Writers at the Intermediate Low sublevel are able to meet some limited practical writing needs. They can create statements and formulate questions based on familiar material. Most sentences are recombinations of learned vocabulary and structures. These are short and simple conversational-style sentences with basic word order. They are written almost exclusively in present time. Writing tends to consist of a few simple sentences, often with repetitive structure. Topics are tied to highly predictable content areas and personal information. Vocabulary is adequate to express elementary needs. There may be basic errors in grammar, word choice, punctuation, spelling, and in the formation and use of non-alphabetic symbols. Their writing is understood by natives used to the writing of non-natives, although additional effort may be required. When Intermediate Low writers attempt to perform writing tasks at the Advanced level, their writing will deteriorate significantly and their message may be left incomplete.</td>
<td>Writers at the Intermediate Mid sublevel are able to meet a number of practical writing needs. They can write short, simple communications, compositions, and requests for information in loosely connected texts about personal preferences, daily routines, common events, and other personal topics. Their writing is framed in present time but may contain references to other time frames. The writing style closely resembles oral discourse. Writers at the Intermediate Mid sublevel show evidence of control of basic sentence structure and verb forms. This writing is best defined as a collection of discrete sentences and/or questions loosely strung together. There is little evidence of deliberate organization. (Intermediate Mid- writers can usually be understood by natives used to the writing of non-natives. When Intermediate Mid-writers attempt writing tasks at this level, the quality and/or quantity of their writing may be inconsistent and/or lack detail.)</td>
